

This is a digital copy of a book that was preserved for generations on library shelves before it was carefully scanned by Google as part of a project to make the world's books discoverable online.

It has survived long enough for the copyright to expire and the book to enter the public domain. A public domain book is one that was never subject to copyright or whose legal copyright term has expired. Whether a book is in the public domain may vary country to country. Public domain books are our gateways to the past, representing a wealth of history, culture and knowledge that's often difficult to discover.

Marks, notations and other marginalia present in the original volume will appear in this file - a reminder of this book's long journey from the publisher to a library and finally to you.

Usage guidelines

Google is proud to partner with libraries to digitize public domain materials and make them widely accessible. Public domain books belong to the public and we are merely their custodians. Nevertheless, this work is expensive, so in order to keep providing this resource, we have taken steps to prevent abuse by commercial parties, including placing technical restrictions on automated querying.

We also ask that you:

- + Make non-commercial use of the files We designed Google Book Search for use by individuals, and we request that you use these files for personal, non-commercial purposes.
- + Refrain from automated querying Do not send automated queries of any sort to Google's system: If you are conducting research on machine translation, optical character recognition or other areas where access to a large amount of text is helpful, please contact us. We encourage the use of public domain materials for these purposes and may be able to help.
- + Maintain attribution The Google "watermark" you see on each file is essential for informing people about this project and helping them find additional materials through Google Book Search. Please do not remove it.
- + Keep it legal Whatever your use, remember that you are responsible for ensuring that what you are doing is legal. Do not assume that just because we believe a book is in the public domain for users in the United States, that the work is also in the public domain for users in other countries. Whether a book is still in copyright varies from country to country, and we can't offer guidance on whether any specific use of any specific book is allowed. Please do not assume that a book's appearance in Google Book Search means it can be used in any manner anywhere in the world. Copyright infringement liability can be quite severe.

conducted by a Cabinet appointed by H.M. the Emperor. Certain modifications however were gradually introduced to prepare the way for the new constitution, promulgated on February the 11th of this year to take effect January 1st 1890. The Government then will consist of Emperor, Cabinet, and Diet, the last of which comprises two Houses,—Peers and Representatives. The first session will be held in 1890.

The main divisions of the Empire are forty-six,—viz : three imperial cities (fu), forty-two prefectures (ken), and one territory (chō). The latter comprises Ezo (Yesso) and neighbouring islands, and is administered by a separate government (Hokkaidō-chō) directly under the Cabinet. The entire remaining portion of the Empire is divided into fu and ken, administered respectively, by chiji and ken-rei, prefects who are advised by local electoral bodies (fu-kwai and ken-kwai). The whole of the Empire is subdivided into ku and *gun** or kōri, of which there are more than eight-hundred, administered by sub-prefects (ku and gun-chō). These officials are appointed by Government, upon examination, and are also advised by popular representatives assembled for the purpose. In addition to the complete territorial divisions and subdivisions above enumerated there are also municipal and village organizations, but these are rather governmental than territorial, regarding population rather than area. Hitherto these have been ku, machi or chō,† and mura (Sinico-Japanese son) or municipality, town and village. To these divisions has been added recently‡ that of cities (shi). The machi and mura are administered by

† Chō is the Sinico-Japanese and machi the Japanese sound for 町.

‡ By Notification issued February 2nd 1889, the following shi or city governments were incorporated:—Tōkyō (Tōkyō-fu), 1,121,883; Kyōto (Kyōto-fu), 245,675; Ōzaka (Ōzaka-fu), 361,694; Sakai (Ōzaka-fu), 44,015; Yokohama (Kanagawa-ken), 89,545; Kōbe (Hyōgo-ken), 80,446; Himeji (Hyōgo-ken), 22,677; Nagasaki (Nagasaki-ken), 38,229; Niigata (Niigata-ken), 46,778; Mito (Ibaraki-ken), 19,810; Tsu (Mie-ken), 15,884; Nagoya (Aichi-ken), 131,492; Shizuoka (Shizuoka-ken), 36,838; Sendai (Miyagi-ken), 61,709; Morioka (Iwate-ken), 30,166; Hirosaki (Aomori-ken), 28,170; Yamagata (Yamagata-ken), 26,971; Yonezawa (Yamagata-ken), 29,203; Akita (Akita-ken), 29,223; Fukui (Fukui-ken), 37,376; Kanazawa (Ishikawa-ken), 97,653; Toyama (Toyama-ken), 53,556; Takaoka (Toyama-ken), 17,974; Matsue (Shimane-ken), 33,381; Okayama (Okayama-ken), 32,989; Hiroshima (Hiroshima-ken), 81,914; Akama-ga-seki or Shimo-no-seki (Yamaguchi-ken), 30,825; Wakayama (Wakayama-ken), 54,868; Tokushima (Tokushima-ken), 57,456; Takamatsu (Kagawa-ken), 37,698; Matsuyama (Ehime-ken), 29,487; Kōchi (Kōchi-ken), 30,987; Fukuoka (Fukuoka-ken), 42,617; Kurume (Fukuoka-ken), 20,907; Kumamoto (Kumamoto-ken), 44,384; Kagoshima (Kagoshima-ken), 45,097.

NOTE. It will be seen that the populations given above are from the Census of December 31st 1886; the populations for December 31st 1887, will be found on page 194. The population of Fukuoka in the above table embraces that of Hakata, while in the Dictionary they are given separate.

officers styled chō-chō and son-chō; the shi and ku likewise by shi-chō and ku-chō.

Until the era of Meiji (1868) another method of division prevailed, viz. into provinces (kuni), of which there were eighty-six, arranged in nine groups, the Central Provinces (Gokinai) and the Eight Circuits. These latter were Hokuroku-dō or Hokuriku-dō, Sanin-dō, and Hokkai-dō, on the North; Tōkai-dō and Tōsan-dō, on the East; San-yōdō and Nankai-dō, toward the South; and Saikai-dō, on the west. These kuni, like the present prefectures (ken), were subdivided into counties (kōri or gun); and, though their names have no longer any political significance, they are still frequently employed in both public and private documents.

The kana found in the following official books, ChimeiSaku-in 地名索引, Gun-ku-chō-son Ichi-ran 郡區町村一覽, Chi-hō Gyō-sei Ku-kwaku Ben-ran 地方行政區畫便覽, Nippon Chi-shi Tei-yō 日本地誌提要, has been romanized according to the rules of the Romanization Society (Rōmaji-Kwai) as exemplified in the 4th edition of Dr. Hepburn's Dictionary; but where long usage differs from these rules the old spelling of names has been added in brackets. Remarks upon Japanese pronunciation will be found at the end of the volume, where a table of kana and their equivalents, taken by permission from Hepburn's Dictionary, has been inserted for the guidance of those unfamiliar with the language.

The list of Roads has been compiled from the annual returns of the Department of Communication. In certain instances, however, the names of roads are hard to identify, and these have therefore been designated by the names of the principal towns which they connect. Roads are classified, according as they are maintained by these various authorities, as imperial, prefectural, and village.

The list of Cities, Towns and chief villages shows what places contain post-office, postal-order, savings-bank, telegraph-office, and railway accommodation. Given in this list are also the populations of larger towns, the names of the Capitals of ken, the name of the fu, ken or kuni in which each place lies, the names of roads on which each is situated and the Chinese characters for each name. The information has been obtained from the latest census returns available, the documents of the Railway and Topographical Bureaux, the official Postal Guide, and special data kindly furnished by the above-named Bureaux. The census of December 31st 1886 has been the authority here followed for populations of all places; but an additional table of populations in places over 10,000 inhabitants, taken from the census Report of December 31st 1887, has been inserted. This Report, however, gives no information about the smaller places.

The last mentioned Census and the sixth annual Statistical Report are the authorities for data given in the list of fu, ken and chō. In this list the names of the kuni comprised in each prefecture (ken), the area in ri, the population, and the chief town of each prefecture are to be found.

The list of counties (gun or kōri) has been made up from the last-named Census Report, and data furnished by the Topographical Bureau, and by correspondence with certain local officials.

The list of Railways includes all roads whether finished, commenced, or for which permission of survey had been granted, up to January 1st 1889. When the list of Towns etc., was set up in type the routes of certain projected Railways were not known, so that some lines given in this list will not be found in the list of towns. The names of towns or other places on the routes, and their distances apart, are here supplied.

A further table has been added, giving the names of private lines, their capital, date of charter, length etc.

A table of equivalents for Japanese ri in English miles has also been inserted. An outline map, condensed from the one published in the Yubinsen-ro, or Postal Routes, in May 1888, is given for the sake of convenient reference. To this have been added the routes of Railways which have, since that date, been opened, partially constructed, or temporarily chartered. The boundaries given are the old provincial limits, not those of the fu and ken. The compiler ventures to hope that the information here, for the first time, summarised will be of service to many besides himself.

Tôkyô, February 1889,

LIST OF RAILWAYS,

INCLUDING RAILWAYS IN COURSE OF CONSTRUCTION, OR FOR WHICH TEMPORARY CHARTERS HAVE BEEN GRANTED.

NOTE. The names given to the Railways in the following list are in some cases those of the principal towns which they connect: thus different sections of the same line will sometimes be found under different headings. In such cases, when the whole line has a common name, as in case of the Tōkaidō Railway, it is also given, with a reference to the names of the different sections of which it is composed.

* An asterisk denotes that the station following is a junction.

THE JAPANESE SYLLABARY.*

The Japanese syllabary consists of seventy-two syllabic sounds, and including the final u, of seventy-three. Among these there are several having the same sound; as, i and ii, u and uu, o and oo, e and ee, ø and øø, ø and øø. If these be deducted it leaves sixty-eight distinct sounds.

These are divided by the Japanese into 47 pure (Sei-on 清音) and 20 impure (Daku-on 濁音) syllables, not including the final u. To express these syllables they employ 48 characters, represented in the following diagram, where the syllables are arranged in their proper order, beginning at the left and reading across the page:—

イ i	ロ ro	ハ ha	ニ ni	ホ ho	ヘ he	ト to	チ chi
リ ri	ヌ nu	ル ru	ヲ wo	ュ wa	カ ka	ヨ yo	タ ta
レ re	ソ so	ツ tsu	ネ ne	ナ na	ラ ra	ム mu	ュ u
ヰ i	ノ no	オ o	ヰ ku	ヰ ya	ヰ ma	ヰ ke	ヰ fu
ヰ ko	ヰ e	ヰ te	ヰ a	ヰ sa	ヰ ki	ヰ ju	ヰ me
ミ mi	ヰ shi	ヰ ye	ヰ hi	ヰ mo	ヰ se	ヰ su	ヰ n

The impure syllables are formed from the pure, by softening the initial consonant for the sake of easy pronunciation, or in writing Chinese sounds. In writing them they use the same characters, with two dots or a circle over the right shoulder, as seen in the following diagram:—

ハ ha	ホ ho	ヘ he	ト to	チ chi	カ ka	タ ta	ソ so	ツ tsu	ク ku	ケ ke	フ fu	コ ko	テ te	サ sa	キ ki	シ shi	ヒ hi	セ se	ス su
バ ba	ボ bo	ベ be	ド do	ジ ji	ガ ga	ダ da	ゾ zo	ズ zu	グ gu	ゲ ge	ブ bu	ゴ go	デ de	ザ za	ギ gi	ジ ji	ビ bi	ゼ ze	ズ zu
ぱ pa	ぼ bo	べ be									ブブ					ヒ

* The following remarks have been taken by permission from the Fourth Edition of Hepburn's Dictionary.

In books these marks to designate the impure sounds are often omitted; it being taken for granted that the reader knows for himself when a syllable is to take this sound.

Another arrangement of their syllables, which is more ancient than the i, ro, ha method, and to which the Japanese are very partial, is that according to the five vowels, called the Go-jū-on, or, I-tsura no on, or the fifty sounds, as follows:—

ア a	カ ka	サ sa	タ ta	ナ na	ハ ha	マ ma	ヤ ya	ラ ra	ウ wa
イ i	キ ki	シ shi	チ chi	ニ ni	ヒ hi	ミ mi	イ i	リ ri	ヰ i
ウ u	ク ku	ス su	ツ tsu	ヌ nu	フ fu	ム mu	ュ yu	ル ru	ヰ u
エ e	ケ ke	セ se	テ te	ネ ne	ヘ he	メ me	エ ye	レ re	ヰ e
オ o	コ ko	ソ so	ト to	ノ no	ホ ho	モ mo	ヨ yo	ロ ro	ヰ o

To complete this table the syllables ア, ヲ, and ヰ have to be repeated.

ORTHOGRAPHY.

In transliterating the Japanese sounds into the Roman letter, the following system has been adopted in this work:—

- a* has the sound of a in father, arm.
- e* has the sound of ey in they, prey.
- i* has the sound of i in machine, pique, or like the sound of e in mete.
- u* has the long sound of u in rule, tune, or oo in moon, excepting in the syllables tsu, zu, and su, when it has a close sound, resembling, as near as possible, the sound of u pronounced with the vocal organs fixed in the position they are in just after pronouncing the letter s.
- o* has the sound of o in no, so. The horizontal mark over ō and ū indicates merely that the sound of o and u is prolonged.
- ai* has the sound of ai in aisle, or like eye.
- au* has the sound of ow in cow, how.
- ch* is pronounced like ch in cheek, cheap.
- sh* is pronounced like sh in shall, ship shop.
- f* has a close resemblance to the sound of the English f, but differs from it, in that the lower lip does not touch the upper teeth; the sound is made hu blowing fu softly through the lips nearly closed, resembling the sound of wh in who: fu is an aspirate, and might, for the sake of uniformity, be written hu.

g in the Tōkyō dialect has the soft sound of ng, but in Kyōto, Nagasaki, and the southern provinces it has the hard sound g in go, gain.

r in ra, re, ro, ru, has the sound of the English r; but in ri is pronounced more like d. But this is not invariable, as many natives give it the common r sound.

se in Kyōto, Nagasaki and the southern provinces is pronounced she, and se like ie. The final n, when at the end of a word, has always the sound of ng; as, mon=mong, san=sang, min=ming, but in the body of a word, when followed by a syllable beginning with b, m or p, it is pronounced like, m, as, ban-min=bamming, mon-ban=mombang; shin-pat=shimpai. Before the other consonants it has the sound of n; as, an-nai, bandai, hanjō.

The sounds of the other consonants, viz., b, d, h, j, k, m, n, p, s, t, w, y, and z do not differ from their common English sounds.

THE SYLLABLES IN COMBINATION.

The syllables commencing with the soft aspirates h and f, and y, when preceded by another syllable, for the most part lose their consonants, and their vowels combine with the vowel of the preceding syllable, sometimes forming a diphthong; as, a-hi becomes ai, a-fu becomes au or ō; sometimes lengthening or reduplicating the sound of the first vowel; as, nu-fu becomes nū, to-ho becomes tō, i-hi becomes ii, yo-fu becomes yō, ho-ho becomes ō.

Sometimes the consonant of the first syllable and the vowel of the second form a single syllable, the vowel of the first and the consonant of the second being elided. This is especially the case in writing the sounds of Chinese words; as chi-ya becomes cha; shi-ya, sha; chiyo, cho; shiyo, sho; jiyo, jo; kuwo, kō; chi-ya-u becomes chō; shiyau, shō; shi-yo-u, shō. Sometimes an entirely new sound is produced; as, te-u becomes chō; he-u, hyō; de-fu, jō; se-fu, shō.

As in this Dictionary the words are arranged according to their sounds, and not according to the Japanese spelling with the Kana, the following table will be found useful to those who may wish to consult it, and who may have the Kana only, without the voice of the living teacher, to direct them to proper sound.

The system of orthography adopted in the previous edition of this work has been modified in a few particulars so as to conform to that recommended by the Romajikwai. Thus the y is omitted before e, and words which in the former edition began with y, in this begin with e, excepting the words yen (dollar), and ye, (to, towards). The y is also omitted in the body of purely Japanese words; and such words as were formerly written hayeru, miyeru, iye, yuye, are now written haeru, mieru, ie, yue. But in words derived from the Chinese, where the second syllable commences with u or ü, the y is still retained, as being preferable to the hyphen; thus ri-en, san-etsu, sho-en, are written riyen, sanyetsu, shoyen.

Dzu is now written zu; and Chinese words formerly written kiya, kiyo, kiu, kuwa, kuwai, are now written kya, kyo, kyū, kwa, kwai.

The syllable tsu (ツ), when preceding the strong consonants k, s, p, and t, is elided, and the consonant of the syllable following it doubled as, batsu-kun becomes bakkun; matsu-sugu becomes massugu; tetsu-pō, teppō; matsu-taku, mattaku.

Ku (ク), when followed by a syllable beginning with k, loses its vowel; as ba-kuka becomes bakka; bikuko, bikko; koku-ka, kokka.

The vowels i and u are often feebly sounded; as, hito is pronounced h'to; shi-chi, sh'chi; shita, sh'ta; shite, sh'te; futatsu, f'tatsu; futo, f'to, etc.

DIALECTS.

The language of Kyōto, the ancient capital of the country, and until the restoration the residence of the Imperial Court and of literary men, has been considered the standard and of highest authority; but since the restoration and the removal of the capital to Tōkyō, the dialect of the latter has the precedence. Dialectical differences are numerous, and provincialisms and vulgarisms abound. The dialect of Satsuma is said to be so different as not to be intelligible in other parts of the country. This subject, however, has not yet been fully investigated. A few of these differences may here be mentioned.

In Tōkyō kwa is pronounced ka; kwan, kan; gwai, gai; as, gun-kwan is pronounced gunkan; kenkwa, kenka; kwaji, kaji; gwaikoku, gaikoku. Yui is frequently changed to i, as, yuku into iku, yuki into iki, yugamu into igamu, juku into jiku, ishu into isshi, shuku into shiku.

Hi is pronounced shi: as, hibachi is pronounced shibachi; hi-no-ki, shi-no-ki, etc.

Na is changed into ne: as, nai into nei, shiranai into shiranei, sō de nai into sō de nei.

The hard g sound is softened into ng: as, kago is pronounced ka-ngo; megane, me-ngane; sugiru, su-ngiru; ne ga takai, ne nga takai, etc.

In the province of Echigo the hi is pronounced fu, and i is changed into e: as, for hibachi, they say fubabhi; for hiku, fuku, for hikari, fakari; for itazura, etazura.

In Izumo the syllables ha, hi, fu, he, ho, are pronounced fuwa, fui, fū, fuo: thus, ham-bun is pronounced fuambun.

In Kazusa, ka, ki, ku, ke, ko, are changed into wa, i, u, e, o.

Besides the above mentioned, many other differences exist; but one conversant with the Tōkyō dialect will have no difficulty in being understood in any part of the country, amongst the educated classes.

ACCENT.

The accent in Japanese words is made by a slight elevation of the tone upon the accented syllable; as a general rule, in words of two syllables it falls on the first; in words of three syllables on the penult; and in words of four syllables on the anti-penult. But the accent always falls upon the syllable that has a double or prolonged vowel sound; as ikō, yosasō, ii-kakeru, ii-tsukeru, yūmeshi. In words of two and like syllables, the accent varies; thus ha'na, a flower, has the accent on the first syllable; and in hana', the nose, it falls upon the last. In hashi', a bridge, the accent is on the final syllable; and in ha'shi, chop-sticks, it falls upon the first. No effort has been made to mark these accents.

EARTHQUAKE-MOTION.
CONSTRUCTED BY PROFESSOR S. SEKIYA
IMPERIAL UNIVERSITY, JAPAN.

The motion, in all its complication, is represented by means of a twisted copper wire, which gives on a magnified scale (fifty times the original) the path in space pursued by an earth-particle during seventy-two seconds of a particular earthquake. The points on the wire corresponding to the positions occupied at successive seconds are marked. We believe it to be the first model of its kind ever made, and are convinced that it will form a very interesting and instructive object both in museums and colleges.
